"THE PHANTOM SIGNAL"..... A Railroad Drama In Two Parts
John Graham is a railroad president of the old school, whose only thought is for dividends. Equipment and wages can take care of themselves, he wants dividends. Accident follows accident on the demoralized road until Graham's daughter falls a victim and is blinded for life.

His wife is injured and he is run down by a locomotive on an unguarded crossing while rushing to her in his automobile. But he does not relent until a terrible vision of the result of his brutality and avarice melts the man of iron and he vows that there shall be a new era of management on his road.

TO MAKE APPLES MORE POPULAR

Adams County Apple Growers Unite With Orchardists from Many States to Make People Eat More Apples. Must Sell More.

Within a few days an organization has been completed in New York City that may come to mean hundreds of thousands of dollars to the apple industry in Adams County.

This new association is called The Apple Advertisers of America. It is composed of representative apple growers from all parts of the United States, Canada and Nova Scotia. Its object is to increase the consumption of apples by advertising, not any one man's apples nor apples from any one section but all apples.

It is a well understood fact that when the millions of young trees now planted come into bearing, there are bound to be very low prices unless a great many more people can be persuaded to buy and consume apples.

Reports on fruit buds from New York, Virginia, West Virginia and the Middle West make it look as if the season just ahead might show just such low price conditions unless something is done. It would seem to be to the advantage of the grower and snipper of apples, as well as the banker and store keeper who profit by the returns from apples, to do everything they can to support this work.

The following officers were elected: president, Louis Erb, Cedar Gap, Missouri; first vice president, E. P. Cahill, Hancock, Maryland; second vice president, John I. Gibson, Traverse City, Michigan; secretary, U. G. Borden, Baltimore; treasurer, C. J. Tyson, Flora Dale.

MECHANICSBURG FIRE

Incendiaries Blamed for Blaze in Neighboring Town.

Fire supposed to have been started by incendiaries early Monday morning destroyed the ice and ice cream manufacturing plant of H. H. Clark and the garage and automobile of Dr. H. F. Brunhouse, a Market street druggist. The loss is placed at near $4,000, a part of which is covered by insurance. Dr. Brunhouse was unable to account for the fire as he had not been in his garage for some time. His big forty-horse power machine had been stored for the winter and he had not paid any attention to it for some weeks. Mr. Clark was also unable to give any reason for the starting of the blaze as his plant was not working Sunday.

WAS SURGEON HERE

Dr. Henry Grim, Army Surgeon at Battle of Gettysburg, is Dead.

Dr. Henry A. Grim, ex-chief surgeon of the First division of the Army of the Potomac and one of the oldest graduates of the University of Pennsylvania Medical school, died at Allentown on Sunday. He was eighty-two years old. Death was caused by over-exertion during the blizzard last week.

In the Civil war he was successively surgeon of the Fifth, Thirty-Fourth, Twelfth and Forty-First Pennsylvania regiments, serving at the battles of Antietam, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Mine Run and in Grant's campaign before Richmond.

BOUNTIES AGAIN

Think Counties Might Have to Pay
Bounties for Noxious Animals.

Secretary Kalbfus, of the State Game Commission, has asked the Attorney General's Department for an opinion on the liability of counties to pay the bounties on noxious animals killed in the State. It is held that even though the State makes no appropriation to pay the bounties the State must pay them, and look to a future appropriation for reimbursement. The Attorney General will give an opinion this week.

FOREIGNERS ON HIKE TO COAST

Accomplished Visitors from Other Lands Pass through Gettysburg on Walking Trip to Pacific Coast.
Three Take Other Route.

On a hike across the country to see the Panama exposition, Adolph Thomsen, of Denmark, Ike Reusema, of Holland, and M. Rigo, of Hungary, who expect to reach San Francisco about September, 1914, stopped over in Gettysburg on Monday afternoon.

In the party originally, which left Philadelphia, February 14, in addition to Thomsen, Reusema and Rigo, were three others, an Englishman, Charles May; a Frenchman, Charles Bogner, and an Austrian, John Birschtsky. All had been waiters in a hotel at Wilmington, Delaware.

The snow delayed the travelers at the start of their journey and shortly after leaving Philadelphia the last three named men decided upon a southern route. They all started without funds and purpose to meet expenses by appearing in moving picture theatres and selling post cards. Thomsen and Reusema are runners and athletes, Rigo is an expert boxer, May is a juggler, Bogner a sketch artist and Birschtsky an accordion player. Their ages range from 21 to 23 years. In their travels they expect to average at least 20 miles a day.

Thomsen, Reusema and Rigo, came by way of Lancaster, Columbia, and York. When they arrived at police headquarters at York Rigo was given a telegram urging his return to Wilmington. The telegram which was from his landlady Mrs. Haley, read: "Something happened: for God's sake come."

Rigo only laughed when shown the telegram and declared it was a ruse to make him abandon the trip. This he had no intention, however, of doing and the three men spent Sunday night at Abbottstown and then came on to Gettysburg Monday.

Blocher, of Gettysburg assisted by Miss Helen Sherrick, formerly of this town, but now residing in Shippensburg, and was received with great applause.

The animals started to run and Ruth was thrown beneath the team. He sustained fractures of both arms, a broken leg and collar bone, and was injured internally.

WANT SNOW MONEY

Supervisors Get Angry when Requests for Money are Turned Down.

Bills for the cleaning of snow from the State highways continue to come to the Auditor General's Department from township supervisors, but all are sent back with the information that there is no fund available, and that any bills of that character, even if there were funds, would have to come through the State Highway Department. Some of the supervisors are very angry, and one of them in Lehigh county is said to be preparing a petition to Governor Tener asking him to call a special session of the Legislature to make an appropriation to clear the highways of snow, and he maintains that the bill making such an appropriation could be passed and the money used long before the snow disappears, so great is its depth in some counties.

The fact that there is no money available for the snow cleaning has been explained to supervisors, but they still are not convinced, and affect to believe that there is some way to get the money, and that it is being held back. In some counties the roads are not opened yet, having drifted so deep, and those who have to use them make detours through the fields, removing fences to get by the drifts.

SEEK DEAD IN ST. LOUIS FIRE

Believe 35 Bodies Are in Ruined Athletic Club Building.

SEVEN HAVE BEEN RECOVERED

Flames Spread So Rapidly Scores
Were Forced to Jump From Windows—Thirteen Escape by Rope.

St. Louis, March 10.—The ruins of the Missouri Athletics club's building, which was destroyed by fire, are being searched for thirty-five missing men, believed to be victims of the worst conflagration in the history of the city. Seven of the dead have been recovered. The property loss is $350-000.

The blaze spread with such rapidity
that for a time the entire retail district was threatened. So intense was the heat that the firemen were beaten back several times. Every fire fighter in the city was on the scene, and every piece of apparatus, but for four hours
the men were hardly able to get close enough to battle with the flames, while the screams of the dying could be heard above the roar of the fire and the crash of falling walls.

The hero of the conflagration was the telephone operator, a small boy, who remained at his post until the flames actually were licking his telephone board. Only then did he flee through the main entrance, passing through flame and smoke. Many of those who escaped death said that his warning had undoubtedly saved their lives.

The figures on the dead and missing were given in a statement issued by a committee of the club, which sought a record of every man known to have been registered at the clubhouse. For the twenty-four missing hope was practically abandoned.

The fire is believed to have started on the third floor, where the dining room had been. With incredible speed the flames spread, and before the first firemen arrived on the scene the entire upper part of the building was an inferno.

Within an hour the walls began to buckle, and one after another fell inward, carrying down the roof and every story above the second. A mass of burning embers and sparks flew hundreds of feet into the air, and settled on scores of buildings in the neighborhood.

It was then that the possibility of an even greater disaster was realized, and, unable to cope with the main blaze, the fire fighters concentrated their attention on preventing the spread of the flames.

Before they could act the fire had spread to the St. Louis company, the St. Louis Poultry and Seed company, the Beckman Butter and Egg company and the Bentzen Commission company.

Only part of the front and rear walls of the Missouri Athletic club building remain. The debris was stopped by the vaults of the Boatmen's bank, which owned the building and occupied the first floor.

The bank has opened temporary quarters in a building four blocks distant. In the vaults of the burned building, bank officials said, were $1,349-000 in currency and $27,000 in coin.

Thirteen men escaped from the fifth floor of the building by sliding down a rope made out of two sheets.

GIRL ENGULFED BY CAVE-IN

Man Descends 100 Feet by Rope to Rescue Her.

Shamokin, Pa., March 10.—Mary Boyle, fifteen years old, was crossing a mountain path with several companions when she was suddenly engulfed in a mine breach.

John Bach was walking a short distance behind them when he saw Miss Boyle disappearing. Running to the opening he found it to be less than four feet wide, but 100 feet deep.

Calling down the opening he learned that the girl was alive. A rope was procured and lowered to the girl, but she could not make it fast about her self.

Bach agreed to be lowered, and found the girl almost senseless. She was hoisted to the surface, and it was found that she had escaped serious injury.

REFUSED A REVIEW IN DYNAMITE CASE

24 Men Convicted of Conspiracy Must Go to Jail.

Washington, March 10.—Former President Frank M. Ryan, of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union, and twenty-three other members of that organization, convicted at Indianapolis in the dynamite conspiracy cases, exhausted their last legal resource in their fight to escape prison when the supreme court of the United States declined to review their cases.

Under the criminal appeals act, a criminal case may not be appealed from the federal courts of appeal to the highest court without a writ of certiorari, which the court refused. Only a pardon can now keep the convicted men from the penitentiary.

The conviction of Ryan and his associates in the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers followed the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building and other structures throughout the country.

The government sought to show that approximately 100 explosions had taken place as a result of the "dynamite conspiracy." The sensational confessions of the McNamara brothers attracted great attention to the cases.

The government did not indict the labor leaders on charges of blowing up the buildings, but with conspiracy to carry explosives on interstate trains on which passengers were riding.

sands of members throughout the United States and Canada, though re-

ARMOURS BUY PENNA. PLANT

Packers Reported to Have Obtained
Tunkhannock Tanning Works.

Tunkhannock, Pa., March 10.—From an apparently authentic source comes the report that the Armour company, of Chicago, has purchased the plant of the Mosser Tanning company at Nex-sen, this county.

The change is expected to revive the industry, which has languished long. The deal involves about a million dollars. The same report says that the Armours have also got control of similar plants at Williamsport and Newberry, Pa., and at Parsons, Va.

Colored Man Kills Another.

Norristown, Pa., March 10.—Robert Granville, colored, thirty years old, was killed by William Johnson, also colored, at Hoopston, near Fort Washington. Johnson says that he did not fire the shot until after Granville had attacked Mrs. Lucy Pinkett and tried to break down the door with a heavy piece of timber. Johnson and Mrs.
Pinkett were arrested.

Postoffice Safe Robbed.

Allentown, Pa., March 10.—Under

ASQUITH REVEALS HOME RULE PLANS

In a formal address to the house of visions of a home rule compromise by dominancy of a Dublin parliament.

The terms of the compromise are:

1.—The counties of Ulster province will be allowed to say whether or not they desire to be excluded from the operations of the home rule for Ireland
bill.

2.—A poll will be taken of the parliamentary electors on the question of exclusion before the home rule bill becomes operative.

3.—If a majority favors exclusion,
the county or counties wherein there has been such a decision will be automatically excluded for a period of six years from the time of the first meeting of the new parliament.

4.—If a majority of the Ulster counties favor exclusion, only the assent of a majority of the people of the whole United Kingdom can bring them under sovereignty of the proposed Dublin parliament.

The declaration of terms brought prolonged cheers from the ranks of the Unionists and groans and hisses from the Liberals and Irish Nationalists.

Home rule in Ireland, with the four Protestant counties of the nine counties of the province of Ulster—Antrim, Armagh, Londonderry and Down—retaining for six years their old standing in the United Kingdom outside the jurisdiction of the Dublin government, would, in the general opinion expressed in parliament, be the result of the compromise offered. The view is generally taken that there can be no doubt of the result of a referendum.

Andrew Bonar Law, leader of the opposition in the house, followed Premier Asquith with a speech which caused much concern.

"If the proposals presented by the government constitute the last word of the cabinet, then the position is indeed very grave," said he. "The Ulster party is opposed to home rule for Ireland with or without the exclusion clause."

Mr. Law declared that he spoke for all Unionists.

"And," said he, "if the proposals mean that the Ulster counties must come within the bill at the end of six years, he could not see how the proposals could be accomplished."

Mr. Law declared that the proposals were unacceptable and that only general elections could solve the home rule problem.

Following Mr. Law's speech, John Redmond, who has devoted his life to the fight for home rule, took the floor.

"I do not like the premier's proposals, but if the Unionists of Ulster accept them, the Irish Nationalists will do likewise," said he. "The proposals comprise the ultimate concession the government could make. When the vote occurs in Ulster, I am sure that there will be a big surprise. If the Ulster Unionists do not accept the government's plan, it is plainly the duty of parliament to pass the home rule bill as it stands now."

SAY HE TRIED TO DECOY GIRL

Antonio Mobilie, 38, Held on Charge of 14-Year-Old Jennie Ruggiero.

Hammonton, N. J., March 10.—Seriously charged by the father of fourteen-year-old Jennie Ruggiero, Antonio Mobilie, thirty-eight years old, was held in $1000 bail to appear before the grand jury to answer the charge of attempting to decoy the young girl
from her home.

Mobilie is alleged to have visited the Ruggiero home on Sunday in the absence of the father and offered the girl $200 to leave with him. The girl refused and notified her father, who saw out a warrant for Mobilie's arrest.

Shafer Quits Base Ball.

San Jose, Cal., March 10.—Arthur Shafer, third baseman of the New York Nationals, announced that he had quit professional base ball and that he would not report this year to the Giants or any other club. He said he was tired of the constant strain of a long pennant race and was going into business with his father at Los Angeles.

MRS. PANKHURST ARRESTED

Revolvers and Bombs Fired in Fight
in Glasgow, Scotland.

Glasgow, March 10.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst was arrested here while making an address to a suffragette meeting.

This is the seventh time that Mrs.
Pankhurst has been arrested under the "cat and mouse" act on the conspiracy charge for which she received a sentence of three years at penal servitude.

A wild riot followed the arrest of Mrs. Pankhurst, in which revolvers were fired, but they apparently contained blank cartridges, and miniature bombs were thrown. Many persons were injured in the fighting. Scottish Yard detectives who came to Glasgow to carry out the arrest say it was the wildest fight yet between the police and the suffragettes.

JUMPED TO DEATH

Woman Suffering With Nervous Trouble Leaps From Hospital Window.

Philadelphia, March 10.—Bridget Sullivan, of 1925 North Broad street,
who has been in the German hospital undergoing treatment for nervous trouble, went to the window of her room and, despite the efforts of a nurse, jumped to the street.

She was carried back to the hospital unconscious and died several hours later. The police say that the woman almost pulled the nurse out of the window when she jumped.

BIG GUN BURSTS AT PROVING GROUNDS

Army Lieutenant Injured by Flying Missiles.

New York, March 10.—Forty officers and privates of the coast artillery,
headed by Lieutenant Colonel Rabbitt,
were in danger when a twelve-inch coast defense gun exploded at the Sandy Hook proving grounds, because a new kind of powder which was being tried for the first time was faulty.
Only one was hurt. He is First Lieutenant Pendleton, who was in charge of the firing squad of eight men, and who was the only one present exposed to the missiles scattered about when the cannon blew up with a mighty roar.

He was standing on the wooden bridge, thirty feet high, running back of the gun mounts and used for observation purposes. A small missile, probably a bolt, struck him in the leg and inflicted a cut so severe that he was sent to the post hospital, where two stitches were taken in the wound.

FIVE INJURED IN FIRE

Three Men Hurt in Clarksburg, W.
Va., Blaze May Die.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 10.— Three men were perhaps fatally injured and two others were seriously hurt in a fire here which destroyed the Lowe building and damaged the ten-story building of the Union National bank, of Clarksburg, with a loss of $139,000.

Archie Wilson, Dallas Swiger and Earl Brown jumped from the third story of the Lowe building and were so badly hurt it is believed they cannot recover.

Bishop Darlington Ill.

Shamokin, Pa., March 10.—Rev.
James Henry Darlington, bishop of the Harrisburg diocese of the Episcopal church, was taken ill at the home of Mrs. Charles P. Helfenstein Saturday night. He returned home, being compelled to postpone confirmation services in Shamokin and at Kulpmont, Mount Carmel and Centralia. It is thought he suffered an attack of appendicitis.

Chief Sam's Ship Missing.

Portland, Me., March 10.—"Chief Sam's" steamship Curitbya, which left
New York for this port, has not arrived and nothing has been seen of the seventy colored passengers whose fares to Portland were said to have been paid by Sam. The "Chief" sailed before leaving New York that the steamer would be overhauled in Portland and prepared for a voyage to Africa.

BEETHOVEN

The Shakespeare of Music

The Shakespeare of music is counted Ludwig von Beethoven, born in 1772, and his birthplace at Bonn is considered a musical shrine. He was the son of a tenor in the King of Saxony's Chapel, and his musical education was begun at five years of age.
Before his eighth birthday he was an accomplished violinist; at the age of thirteen he published a book of popular marches and sonatas, and his music has such a wide scope and variety that many of the phrases in his sonatas and piano selections have become popular melodies and songs. His entire loss of hearing did not prevent him from continuing to achieve exquisite compositions, and it was his versatility and wide range of every form of musical expression that made him famous.

Some of Beethoven's matchless
melodies are to be found in "Heart Songs"—and enhance the value of that volume to the true music lover.

Frenchwoman's Cold Cure.

Having been without a cold for 27 fortunate record, attributes it to the following process. Each morning after taking a warm bath, she immediately sponges her throat, her face, and the back of her neck and ears with the very coldest water she can get for about two minutes. In cold weather one may feel inclined to shirk, she says, but the result of steady applica-

THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL AVIATION RACE AROUND THE WORLD.

Copyright, 1914, by Panama Pacific International Exposition Company.

In May, 1915, the Panama-Pacific International exposition at San Francisco will be the gathering place of the most expert aeronauts from all the civilized nations of the globe, when the start is made of the great aerial race-around-the-world for a prize of $300,000, the largest sum ever offered for any single sporting event in history. Every description of motor-driven air craft will participate in this stupendous loop-the-loop around the globe. The race will represent the climax of all the world's aeronautical activities and will stand for all time as an immortal epic of human daring, human ingenuity, and the marvelous epitome of the progress of mankind. It will be the supreme adventure of our day. As an achievement, it will mark a historic cycle that will compare with the crossing of the Atlantic by Columbus and the circumnavigation of the world by the fleet of Magellan in 1522. Aviators have long discussed the project of round-the-world aeroplane tours.

The Kitchen Cupboard

SHOULDER OF VEAL.

SHOULDER of veal is most often stuffed, roasted or braised. Sometimes it is boiled. The knuckle is to be cut off and saved to enrich gravy or stew.

Boiled Shoulder of Veal.—Cut the knuckle and draw out the bone. Rub the under part with a piece of lemon and sprinkle with pepper, salt and chopped parsley. Roll up the meat and fasten with skewers. Put into a large pan and cover with water. Let it simmer until cooked. Serve with onion sauce.

Boiled With Vegetables.

Boiled Stuffed Shoulder of Veal.—Take the bone out of the shoulder of veal and fill the cavity left by it with veal stuffing, then roll up the veal neatly and tie round firmly with a string. Place in a stewpan, with just enough water to cover. Allow to simmer slowly for four hours. Prepare two carrots, two onions and some herbs and stew with the joint. To serve take out the veal, remove the strings, strain the gravy, thicken with flour and pour over the whole. Chop the vegetables finely for a garnish.

Roast Stuffed Shoulder of Veal.—Cut off the knuckle and have all bone removed. Fill the space with highly seasoned forcemeat made of bread crumbs, thyme, marjoram, lemon peel and juice, chopped ham or boiled bacon, salt, pepper and nutmeg mixed to a stiff paste with beaten egg. Sew up the opening and press into good shape and roast it. Baste frequently and let the meat be thoroughly cooked. Serve with thickened brown gravy; garnish with lemon sliced and mushrooms.

An Italian Viand.

Shoulder of Veal With Macaroni.—Prepare a shoulder of veal by removing the bones, skewer the meat and bind it into a round. Season with salt and pepper, sprinkle with sifted flour, place upon a rack in a pan and set in the oven to roast. Break some macaroni into short lengths and boil till tender. When the veal is within half an hour of being done cleanse and trim some mushrooms. Cut them into small pieces, sprinkle with salt and place in the dripping pan with the macaroni. Baste them as well as the meat with the drippings in the pan. After taking up the meat lay the cooked macaroni around it as a garnish and sprinkle with the mushrooms. Have ready a little white sauce and pour it into the pan. Mix it with the drippings and then strain over the meat. If there is much gravy in the pan no sauce need be used at all.

Auntie Thompson.

To Remove Mildew.

Mildew is best removed by dipping the goods into a weak solution of chloride of lime, then placing the garment in the sun for a few minutes, after which rinse thoroughly. A heaping teaspoonful of lime to a quart of water is about the right proportion.

The Awakening.

"Then," said the man who was preparing the sketch, "I shall say that you first saw life in the little village of Backwoodsville." "No," said Mr. Selfmade, "I was born there, but I didn't see any life till I came to New York."—Puck.

A NEW FEATURE IS THE SOFTLY DRAPED JAPANESE COLLAR

The demand for something new, something different, allows of few monotonous moments in the life of a designer of women's clothes. When drapery first came into vogue it was comparatively easy to evolve new designs, but again we are looking for something novel.

Premet is trying to rejuvenate the bustle. A frock of blue silk poplin shows a bustle effect brought about by a clever cut and arrangement of drapery that is really quite attractive. It is a three piece suit, and an extremely smart little coat is another feature. Several other imported models give indications of the bustle, and several display draped collars after the Japanese style.

Value of Rheuma From the Court

Judge Barhorst was Relieved of Rheumatism After Doctors Failed. If you have tried many other remedies and doctors' treatments for Rheumatism and found they failed, do not be skeptical about trying RHEUMA. Read the testimony of Judge John Barhorst of Fort Loramie, O.:

It is now two years since I used the remedy, and I am still as well as ever. Previously, I was a cripple, waking with crutches." Such testimony should be convincing. 50 cents of People's Drug Store guaranteed.

Afghanistan Infant Mortality.

Infant mortality in Afghanistan is very heavy. It has been said by a leading medical missionary in Peshawar that, in his opinion, probably about one-half the children born in the country die before reaching the age of three years. There are no special pains exercised in the country to prevent such mortality, and the wandering and generally insanitary mode of life and the small attention paid to women and infants at childbirth account for the heavy infant mortality.

Information.

The length of time the earth is turning on its axis is called a day. At the equator the days and nights are always 12 hours long. The farther a point lies from the equator the longer are its longest days and longest nights. At the poles the year is made up of one day and one night, each six months long. All places in about 66½ degrees of latitude north or south have one day in the year 24 hours long and one night of equal length.

Had No Use for Water.

Robert Brown's father did not believe in drinking undiluted water. Brown used to tell a story of his father's indignation when he once asked him for a glass of water. "Water, Robert!" he exclaimed. "For washing purposes, I believe, it is often employed, and for navigable canals I admit it to be indispensable, but for drinking, Robert, God never intended it."

This is an important message to you
When quality is lowered or prices raised you are expected to pay the bills

But to a certain extent the remedy is in your hands. You do not have to accept an inferior brand of goods or to pay more than a fair market price—for your retailer carries advertised goods and these are "right" in quality and price. If they were not right, it would not pay continually to advertise them. Advertised goods are dependable. See that you get them—and thus protect yourself!

Knowledge is power. Keep posted as to what is being offered and as to what the prices are. The advertising in this newspaper is at your service every day in the year. It is written to you and for you.

It contains the news that is of interest to your pocket-book. It spreads the markets before you and brings the town's show-window to your feet.

Read and profit—let some one else get the unadvertised inferior or over-priced goods and thus pay the penalty for not "keeping informed."

VIRILE FIGURE, "THE PIRATE," FOR GREAT EXPOSITION WALLS.

Copyright, 1914, by Panama Pacific International Exposition Company.

When the sculptors at the Panama Pacific International Exposition began their work they had as an inspiration a task which has appealed to the imagination of the world for centuries, the cutting of the barrier between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans in the Panama canal, and so they have reproduced in the sculpture figures of the early explorers, pirates, the adventurers of the seas, the pioneers, pathfinders. The picture above shows "The Pirate" by Allan Newman, the brilliant American sculptor.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

NOVEL WAYS WITH TRIPE.

BREAKFAST MENU.
Grapefruit.
Oatmeal With Milk.
Fried Tripe.
Griddlecakes.
Syrup.
Coffee.

SOME excellent and unusual ways of cooking tripe are among the following recipes:

Covered With Batter.
Fried Tripe—Make a batter by sifting two tablespoonfuls of flour into a bowl; add one well beaten egg, two finely chopped onions, half a pint of milk and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Select thin tripe and cut it into small strips. Dip each piece into the batter and fry for seven minutes in plenty of smoking hot fat. Serve very hot with melted butter, made pliant by the addition of mustard.

Lyonnaise Tripe—For cooking tripe lyonnaise cut it into thin strips about an inch in length. Put into a saucepan three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, and when hot add two tablespoonfuls of onions cut into thin slices. Cook to a delicate golden color. Add the tripe, cook slowly for fifteen minutes and season with salt, pepper, a dash of cayenne, a tablespoonful of parsley and a tablespoonful of tomato sauce. Serve with grated cheese.

Rolls and Baked.
Baked Tripe—Four ounces of white bread crumbs, one ounce of chopped speck, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, half a teaspoonful of sweet herbs, salt, pepper and one well beaten egg. Mix the above ingredients, adding a little milk if necessary to hold them together. Spread this on one pound of tripe and form it into a roll, which must be secured by one or two pieces of tripe. Place the tripe in a baking pan with a good supply of dripping and bake it for half an hour, basting it frequently.

Curried Tripe—Slice two large onions and fry them a light brown in two tablespoonfuls of dripping. Stir into the pan one teaspoonful of curry powder, one tablespoonful of flour and three-quarters of a pint of stock. Cook slowly for a quarter of an hour, then strain. Return it to the saucepan and add two pounds of the tripe, cut into small pieces. Season with salt to taste and stew slowly for one hour, then add one teaspoonful of lemon juice. Serve hot with a dish of plain boiled rice.

Ringworm in Calves.
Ringworm is very common in calves at this time of the year. Scrub and scrape the spot perfectly free from scales and scabs and then rub in some iodine ointment. Repeat the application each other day and the trouble will soon subside. Isolate the calf, as the disease is contagious. Clean up, disinfect, whitewash, perfectly ventilate and sunlight the stable, as ringworm is due to a vegetable parasite (Trichophyton tonsurans) which lives on damp walls and woodwork in insanitary stables as well as on animals.

Making Lilies Grow.
Calla lilies will show wonderful improvement if a cup of hot water is poured on them now and then.

THE SWINEHERD.

Keep the pigs warm. They will grow all winter if conditions are right, says the Farm Journal.

With bacon at 25 or 30 cents a pound, it pays to keep pigs and keep them right.

If the hogs are warm and comfortable it takes less food to keep them thrifty.

The breeding sows should have a combination of foods and very little corn.

They must have some succulent foods—roots, vegetables, etc., and clover hay.

The brood sows must have exercise to be healthy. Bad luck with them can always be traced to ignorant or careless handling by the owner.

Separate the breeding sows as they begin to grow heavy.

A jam from a boss sow may cause the loss of the pigs and the sow too.

Lo, a cloud's about to vanish

And a brazen wrong to crumble

Lo, the rights about to conquer!
Clear the way!

Many others, great and small.
That for ages long have held us
For their prey.

His Querer Request.
Cyril Maude tells the following story about his old friend, W. S. Penley: Penley was stopping at a country house in Brittany.

France, and the morning after his arrival, finding no looking glass in his room, rang the bell. "Apparce moi un cheval," he said to the maid who answered him. The maid grinned and then, chucking with laughter, ran down to her master. "Monsieur," she cried, "your friend who arrived last night is mad. He has nothing on but his dressing gown, and he asked me to bring him a horse!" The host ran up and asked Penley what on earth he wanted a "cheval" for. "Well," was Penley's reply, "we talk of a cheval glass at home, don't we? I thought 'cheval' was the French word for mirror."

The Oxford Down sheep is very popular with those farmers who desire an animal that will produce a good mutton carcass and at the same time give a good account of itself in wool. It is a ready fattening sheep and is seen at its best when crossed with another Down breed. Admired of the Oxford say that it combines size, weight of fleece and the thickness of flesh of the Cotswold with the compactness and form of the Hampshire, from which it originally descended.

She Could Lecture Them.
Mr. Frederick Townsend Martin in his book, "Things I Remember," tells a story of a titled lady, well known in English society, with very decided and outspoken opinions on certain subjects.

One day she was out at lunch and the conversation turned on the pleasures of life. Every one present gave his or her idea of what constituted enjoyment, and at last, Lady Henry remarked in her impressive manner, "For myself, I like dinners better than anything else."

"Dinners?" exclaimed her host in a tone of great surprise. "My dear Lady Henry, surely you are not a gourmet?"

"Oh, no," drawled her ladyship; "I like dinners because I know I am certain to have a man on either side of me who can't get away!"

A Fair Warning.
"Many a man goes to war without the slightest conception of what it really is," said a veteran of General Robert E. Lee's army. "In 1864 I had command of a detail made up of a dozen or two recruits that had just come up from the gulf states. The first night we were near the enemy I managed to find a deserted cabin and, after placing my picket out in front, we hung ourselves down to sleep. In the middle of the night I changed the picket, selecting for duty a young fellow who had exhibited the most intense longing to exterminate the entire northern army."

"About dawn I was awakened by the well known 'ping, ping' of bullets against the logs of the cabin and the exhorting voice of my picket. Going to the door, I saw that a small scouting party of federal soldiers had discovered signs of Confederates in the cabin and were trying to drive us out by firing from the opposite hill. I turned to my picket and gave a gasp of astonishment. The young man stood in the midst of the clearing while the bullets whistled around him. There was no sign of fear about him, but he was tremendously excited. He had dropped his musket and was waving his arms, trying to attract the attention of the enemy, and shouting at the top of his voice in tones of remonstrance:

"Say—y, you fellows over yonder! Don't you all be a-shootin' in here, 'yar's folks in here!"—New York Post.

The Scrap Book

Spoiled the Water.

The late Dr. Melkile of Crief Hydro is the hero of many stories, none better known than that of his desire to induce his guests to adopt his own "temperance" principles. He became aware of the practice indulged in by some patrons of the Hydro of concealing certain cordials in their bedrooms and of ordering shaving water at bedtime whereby to enjoy furtive jorums of toddy.

Meeting a servant in a corridor one night, who was staggering under a heavy tray of hot water jugs, Dr. Melkile asked her where she was going with these things. She replied that she was taking shaving water to the gentlemen. "Come here," said the doctor, leading the way to a bathroom. The maid followed in fear and trembling. The doctor pulled out a pen-knife and, taking a hunk of soap, cut it into small pieces, which he dropped into the jugs, with the caustic remark: "Soap won't hurt it. It's shaving water, you know." The curses that ensued in several bedrooms are unknown, but it is asserted that, if known, they would be unprintable.—Toronto Globe.

It was almost a zero temperature in his office when the grand promoter got down there the other morning. He had an hour he tried to build a fire, but it was no good.

If he went up to the dentist's office to get warm he would be dunned for $3 borrowed money.

That morning at the table the landlady had glared at him.

He must come down with the cash or skip.

He was played out at every free lunch place within a mile.

Never before in his career as a grand promoter and a grand deadbeat had he been so close to a desperate situation. He felt that he had been wronged. He felt that he was a victim to be pitted.

In a drawer of his three legged desk was an old revolver. He had bought it of a junkman for 15 cents, and he had made use of it to menace his clothes cleaner when that person came up and stood in the door and shouted out:

"You owe me $4, and if you don't pay him up I shall have you in prison in two minutes!"

A sight of the deadly pistol had always sent the cleaner downstairs on the jump and saved the major's dignity, but shouldn't it be used for a different purpose now?

The major placed the muzzle of the weapon to his ear and shuddered.

He opened his mouth, thrust the pistol into the cavity and sighed.

He held it against his heart and counted twenty and didn't pull the trigger.

"No, no; I will live on!" he exclaimed as the pistol was replaced and he stood up.

"That's right, old rooster!" exclaimed a hearty voice at the door, and the major turned to behold a jolly faced stranger.

"What can I do for you, sir?"

"Give sympathy and help to a brother in trouble."

"What you about to commit suicide?"

"I was."

"In hard luck?"

"The hardest kind."

"Don't do it, major. I came in here two months ago with only $3 left. I had determined to take a desperate chance that is, to invest my last shilling with you. You sold me some silver stock at 3 cents on the dollar. You said it would soon be worth 90."

"But I was deceived," replied the major, who expected a blowing up.

"You mean you tied to me—like a trooper. But don't get nervous over it. I have called to thank you."

"Yes, sir. I have sold that stock at par."

"And—and as I put you on to a good thing you have come to divide?"

"Nix on the divide, major; just my share of the profit."

"That's the sort of a woman I am. And there will be porthouse steak for you at every dinner."

"Am I alive or dead?"

"As lively as a cricket, major, and please take this $20 and use it as your best judgment dictates."

"I certainly am dead and in paradise."

"And come to dinner early, major, and change your seat to the head of the table."

And when she had departed the major kicked over the rusty old stove, broke the backs of the two chairs and flew down to a lunch place he knew of and ordered three pork sausages well done.

One of the most pretentious town planning schemes ever meditated is to be undertaken at Delhi, India.

Senator Fall, picturing conditions in Mexico, included a vivid statement he had received from Emeterio de la Garza, who came to Washington last year in the interest of the Huerta government. From de la Garza's letter he read:

"These who now rule in Mexico, both at the Aztec capital and that of the revolution, are, by their bloody deeds a legion of intoxicated demons who are courting flat failure."

A large part of the letter which followed was a detailed attack on President Wilson's Mexican policy.

"The government and the revolution, both of them, are unhealthy and have gone mad, as their aim is none other than to thwart civilization and re-establish barbarism," he read from the letter.

"Their only aim is to fight. They only take pride in winning, in killing, in shooting and severing heads from the bodies, in eating raw flesh or in burying alive their enemies; ferocity is their natural condition, timidity is their supreme virtue. What a lot of savages; and such cannibal feasts, such anarchical dances, such political orgies, dignified by some as the name of 'government,' and with the title of 'constitutionalism' by others who don't know their ilk."

Fall quoted opinions of international law to justify intervention, not for war, but for protection, and also cited numerous instances of such intervention on the part of this government in other countries.

100 OUTRAGES IN MEXICO CITED

Senator Fall Gives List of Crimes Against Americans.

ASSAILS WILSON'S POLICY

Pictures Conditions in Southern Republic as a Legion of Intoxicated Demons Seeking to Re-establish Barbarism.

Washington, March 10.—Specific charges that more than 100 Americans and other foreigners have been slain or outraged in the last three years of revolution in Mexico, were laid before the senate by Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, in a speech in which he urged armed intervention—not for war but for protection of non-combatants—and assailed President Wilson's policy.

Senator Fall's list gave names, dates and circumstances and was collected from his own sources. The Benton, Vergara and Baugh killings and the death of the fifteen Americans in the Cumbre tunnel disaster are included in those since March 4, 1913.

Secretary Bryan, when he heard of Senator Fall's charges, said he would make no statement, until he had read all the senator's speech and would for the present leave the administration's defense to senators.

"With the solemn declaration that we do not war upon the Mexican nation nor people," said Fall, "that it is not our purpose to acquire territory, upset their laws nor overturn their constitution, and an invitation to the masses of the Mexican people to co-operate with us; we should immediately direct the use of the land and naval forces of this government for the protection of our citizens and other foreigners in Mexico and lend their assistance to the restoration of order and maintenance of peace in that unhappy country."

"I might cite authority after authority and pile precedent upon precedent as justification under international law for such action, but I will only read from the message of the martyred McKinley with only the suggestion that we insert the name of 'Mexico' in lieu of that of Cuba or Spain."

Mr. Fall read a part of President McKinley's famous war message, and then referred to President Wilson's refusal last autumn to transmit information relative to Mexico to the senate on the ground that it was incompatible with the public interest.

"Abraham Lincoln thought it not incompatible with the public interests to fully inform the senate concerning communications between this government and that of France," said he. "Grover Cleveland thought it not incompatible with the public interests to forward to this body all papers and correspondence concerning the arrest, death, etc., of various Americans in Cuba, as will be seen by reference to his special messages."

Senator Fall, picturing conditions in Mexico, included a vivid statement he had received from Emeterio de la Garza, who came to Washington last year in the interest of the Huerta government. From de la Garza's letter he read:

"These who now rule in Mexico, both at the Aztec capital and that of the revolution, are, by their bloody deeds a legion of intoxicated demons who are courting flat failure."

ADMITS BEATING AND ROBBING AGED COUPLE

Fractured Skull of Woman and Clubbed Her Husband.

Pittston, Pa., March 10.—The police have arrested George Bennett, aged twenty-two years, and he has confessed that he went to the home of Peter Learn, in Laceyville, and after fracturing the skull of Mrs. Learn, sixty-five years old, and beating her husband, sixty-three, with a club, tied and bound the couple and robbed the house of $27.

Mrs. Learn is now confined in a hospital at Sayre, hovering between life and death, and her husband, who was at the same hospital, has recovered.

Bennett was frequently befriended by the aged couple. When his money was gone he left his boarding house in Pittston, Feb. 21, and after disguising himself, went to the home of the old couple and beat them badly, he said.

He was seen in that vicinity by a telegraph operator, and when it was learned that he had burned a blood-stained coat at his boarding house, it was decided to arrest him. When charged with the crime he broke down and confessed.

URGES CHILD LABOR LAW

William Draper Lewis Argues For National Measure.

Washington, March 10.—William Draper Lewis, dean of the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, argued before the house committee on labor in support of the constitutional amendment of a national child labor law.

Dean Lewis took the ground that if it is a reasonable exercise of the power of congress to protect the morals or health of the citizens of a state by excluding from interstate commerce lottery tickets, of poisonous drugs, we may be sure that the supreme court will also hold that it is a reasonable exercise of the power to protect the manufacturers of a state from unfair trade competition, by excluding from interstate commerce the products of those who would under sell by the exploitation of child labor.

GIRL DYING FROM POISON

Swallows Tablets When Rebuked For Staying Out Late at Night.

Pottstown, Pa., March 10.—Florence Rowan, seventeen years old, daughter of James Rowan, of Sanatoga, near here, is dying as a result of taking poison ten days ago, when she was rebuked by her father for remaining away from the house until late at night.

The girl's attempt at suicide was discovered within half an hour after she had taken the poison, but medical attention could not be had for nearly three hours. In the meantime the poison had taken effect on her kidneys, as a result of which physicians hold out little hope.

Defrauded Employer of $5400.

Pottsville, Pa., March 10.—Joseph Jones, a timekeeper employed by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, at Coaldale, pleaded guilty to four charges of embezzlement and one of larceny and was sentenced to two years in jail. By means of fictitious names placed on the payroll Jones in the last eighteen months defrauded the company out of $5400, using the money to speculate.

Scarlet Fever Kills Twelve.

Trenton, N. J., March 10.—Aid was sent by the state board of health to Florence, N. J., where an epidemic of scarlet fever has cost the lives of a dozen persons, in addition to closing all the schools, moving picture shows, games and public gatherings.

Emotions Expressed in Dancing.

In the Vedas of the Hindus, some of which date back 6,000 years before Christ, there is steady reference to dancing as an expression of triumph, worship, and even the deepest grief. It is the same in the Zendavestas of the Persians. Dancing with cymbals and tambourines, with bells tied to their ankles and wrists or around their waists, was an art that the priestesses in the temples must understand.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by
J. W. DARROW, Chatham, N. Y.,
Editor of the New York State Grange Review

FREDONIA NO. 1.

Glance Backward Into Realms of Grange History.

The First to Be Instituted Still an Active and Efficient Organization With 650 or More Members—Some of the Commendable Activities of This Grange Noted—The Young People's Organization Also Flourishing.

By J. W. DARROW.

Forty-five years ago the first subordinate grange of the United States—or of the world, for that matter—was organized at Fredonia, N. Y. About twenty years ago the twenty-fifth anniversary of Fredonia grange was celebrated, O. H. Kelley, the founder, being present. Twenty years ago there were not more than 30,000 or 40,000 members of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry in New York state. Chautauqua county, in which Fredonia is located, had about 3,000 members and Fredonia grange about 250. Now there are about 105,000 members of the Order in the state. Chautauqua has about 8,000 in thirty-four granges within its border, and old Fredonia has over 650 names on its roll. Fredonia rightly proposes a lasting memorial to the late founder, O. H. Kelley, in resolutions adopted at a meeting in March last, as follows:

Resolved, That in choosing our village as the place for organizing the first grange he conferred on our village a great honor and especial honor to Fredonia grange, No. 1.

Resolved, That we favor the erection of a monument, surmounted by a marble or granite bust of our honored founder, to occupy a suitable place in the building or grounds of the capitol at Washington as a lasting memorial of his work and life, to be paid for by appropriations from each of the granges of the country according to their membership.

Resolved, That we favor the appointment of a committee at the next meeting of the national grange to decide upon the amount to be expended for such monument and apportion it among the granges accordingly.

Sometimes granges do their little work and die. They do so little they just naturally have to die. Not so Fredonia No. 1. In the last twenty years its increase in membership has been 400. How many granges are there in the Empire State with 400 members? Then, again, how many are there with 650? Surely Fredonia is a youthful giant, strong, hearty, aggressive—an example of wonderful vitality and notable efficiency, whose work, great as it has been, is not, however, comparable with what it shall be.

We judge the future by the present and the past. Let us see what Fredonia No. 1 is doing now!

First in regard to community service—the best service any grange can render. Fredonia has contributed regularly toward the maintenance of a free bed in Brooks Memorial hospital, Dunkirk, N. Y., also toward the support of the Gerry and Randolph (N. Y.) Homes for Orphan Children and toward the Old Ladies' Home at Fredonia. Each year a contribution is made to Pomona grange of Chautauqua county to help defray the expenses of rural teachers at Chautauqua during the session of the summer schools. Many members of Fredonia grange are also members of the Fredonia Mother's club, the Mother's Club of Fredonia Normal school and the Home and School club. Then, too, the East Main Street History club and the Cornell Reading club has each its quota of grangers. Many members are also interested in the Y. W. C. A., recently established in Fredonia, and in the W. C. T. U. and various lodges.

In respect to co-operative buying and selling, while Fredonia has no distinctive association for this purpose, many of its members belong to the South Shore Shipping association. The county farm bureau, of which Hawley B. Rogers is general manager, is trying to co-operate in every way possible with the granges of the county. The old and well known Chautauqua Institution is also working in conjunction with the granges in granting scholarships to young men of the grange in their school of practical agriculture located on its own farm on the border of Chautauqua lake.

Of the educational work of the grange Miss Bell Wilson says that the officers memorize the ritual and take especial pains to render their various lectures with expression and effectiveness. A degree team has been organized, consisting of the regular grange officers, the choir, a young men's drill team, a young ladies' tableau staff and a string orchestra.

Young People's society of Fredonia grange No. 1 numbers nearly eighty members and meets every other Friday. It has its own constitution and bylaws and is subordinate to grange No. 1. Only members of grange No. 1 can be admitted. Its purpose is social and intellectual advancement. Parliamentary drill is given and a varied program of music, readings and recitations after the regular routine business. Then follows an hour of dancing Every fifth Saturday, in those months having five Saturdays, is devoted to a special program of plays and music for the entertainment of grange No. 1. This society contributed over $100 last year toward the new grange hall fund. It also has made three successful exhibits at the agricultural fair and has taken first premium each time.

Frankness itself.

REFUNDED THE SURPLUS.

A Financial Scheme That Carried a Surprise With It.

A story about some members of an Epworth league in Brooklyn has been suppressed up to now, but "murder will out."

The young ladies of the league decided to give an entertainment and reception. The entertainment was bound to cost a little money for music and incidentals, but it had to be given as an accompaniment of the reception at which a visiting pastor, who at one time had been rector of the church, was to be a guest of honor.

A subscription to defray the expense was started. It met with a very generous response and some large individual contributions. When the entertainment and reception were finished the committee of young ladies who had the finances in charge began reckoning up. They found that they were $180 to the good after all bills had been paid.

"We'll just divide the $180 up and send it back to those who contributed," said one young committee woman.

"That's just what we'll do, and we'll do it right away," said another financier of the committee.

So the money was divided and returned. The committee plumed itself it had shown some of the mere men folk that it knew how to conduct an enterprise successfully. They met a grim old deacon on the street next day and accosted him for a compliment on their success.

"Don't you think we deserve congratulation—running an entertainment, paying expenses and returning money?" they asked.

"I certainly congratulate you. It is wonderful. I contributed $5, and I got back $8. Marvelous how you did it!"

The girls had divided the surplus evenly.—New York Sun.

Luck and Labor.

Luck lies in bed and wishes the post-man would bring him the news of a legacy; labor turns out at 6 o'clock and with busy pen or ringing hammer lays the foundation of a competence.

Only a Misunderstanding.

Several years ago in a well known wholesale house in a big manufacturing town an old bachelor bookkeeper, who had been many years with the firm, suddenly announced that he was to be married.

The partners gave him a week's holiday, and his fellow clerks raised a little purse and presented it to pay the expenses of his wedding trip.

A couple of days after the wedding one of the members of the firm went down to a seaside resort, and there, lounging about the parade and apparently enjoying himself immensely, he saw his recently married old bookkeeper, but alone.

"Where's your wife?" asked the principal.

"She's at home," was the reply.

"But I thought you had money given you for a wedding trip?"

"So I had," was the reply, "but I didn't understand that it was intended to include her."—Pearson's Weekly.

Rose to the Occasion.

"Stuffy" Davis, who rose from dramatic critic to being a circus press agent and then descended to writing fiction, came into a Broadway hotel with four days' growth of whiskers on his cheeks.

"Why don't you shave?" a friend at the next table called out.

"I would if I had a razor," Stuffy retorted.

The friend produced a safety razor from his pocket and sent it over by a waiter.

"Bring me a charlotte russe," directed the unabashed Davis, and shaved right there.—New York World.

Pretty Feeble.

A dapper little drummer was compelled by circumstances to pass the night in a village hotel in that part of Illinois popularly called "Egypt." At breakfast he ordered soft boiled eggs. The waitress deposited two in the shell before him. Looking up, the drummer said, "Please break the eggs in a glass." With a withering look of scorn the buxom waitress replied: "We'll good gracious! If you can't break two soft boiled eggs in a glass you'd better go to a hospital!"—National Food Magazine.

Sorry He Interrupted.

During the last general elections in Canada Rev. J. J. McGaskill vigorously upheld the reciprocity pact in the province of New Brunswick. At a meeting in Queen's county he was discussing the effect of the agreement on the price of various commodities. "What about hay?" shouted an opponent. "I'm discussing human food now," retorted the speaker, "but I'll come to your specialty in a moment!"

The Lack.

He—"I saw a fellow looking over the diamond ring case at our store this morning." She—"Oh, how I wish I were the woman in the case!"—St. Louis Times.

That's Why.

He had been calling for some time and she thought she would give him a gentle hint. "It is not good for man to live alone," she said. "That's why we have clubs," he responded calmly.
